GIRLS IN THE WATER.

Multitudes Seeing a Sunday Contest by Five Young Women in the East River.

From the New York Sun.

Five young women in neatly-fitting bathing suits stood timidly upon the float in front of Raun's swimming baths at the foot of East Sixty-fifth street, yesterday afternoon. They were the Misses Carrie Ryan, Emma Reoner, Clara Friend, Mary Steinberg and Julia Heznan, anxiously awaiting the boat that was to take them out into the middle of the stream, where they were to swim a race of 400 yards. When the craft came, however, one and all refused to go, fearing the gaze of the multitudes that lined the shores, and those who were rowing about in rowboats. Holtz, their teacher, for whose benefit this and other races had been arranged, argued with them for a long time, and finally with some success.

"I'll go if you will, Mary," said Miss Clara Friend to a tall, dark-complexioned young woman in a pretty blue costume. The latter hesitated a moment, looked intently at the mass of spectators, and then exclaimed, as she sprang from her seat:

"Very well! I'll go! Come girls, let's all go!"

The enthusiasm of the last speaker had a magic effect upon the faltering, frightened girls. One after another they sprang into the boat and were rowed out into the stream.

"Are you ready?" said Mr. Holtz, when they had reached a point midway between the two shores.

"Yes!" they answered.

All sprang upon the thwarts and seats of the boats.

"Then go!" said Holtz.

At the word, five symmetrical female forms sprang into the air, turned half a somersault, and pierced the smooth waters like so many arrows. The tide was on the first of the six knots an hour. In some places the whirling eddies indicated the meeting of counter currents. These were carefully avoided by the swimmers. Miss Ryan had a touch of cramp when nearing the first quarter. She at once turned over on her back and floated. Her action and the expression of pain upon her face was signal enough for Mr. Holtz, who rowed alongside and took her aboard. Miss Ryan is said to be a very plucky swimmer, and had it not been for this accident would have stood a good chance of winning the race.

Her companions, with Miss Steinberg at their head, struck out steadily for the stakepost. Miss Heznan tried the hand-over-hand stroke, and seemed at intervals to almost spring out of the water.

Miss Emma Renner, who was just ahead of her, swimming with a graceful side action, having first one shoulder and then the other submerged. Toward the goal, Miss Friend, an exceedingly graceful swimmer, made a fine effort to overtake Miss Steinberg, who was leading her by about three lengths. Near the stakepost the pair, throwing water from their mouths, and spouting like porpoises, were almost abreast. Then Miss Steinberg, who had not been doing her best, made a dash for the goal, and touched it about one length ahead. Time 1:40½. A gold medal was given to her.

A Shocking Crime—Killed and Ate His Brother.

From the New York Sun.

The Assize Court at Perugia, in Italy, has just condemned to death a man named Thomas Longari, who had not only murdered his brother but eaten him. The two brothers, Thomas and Sebastian Longari, had been on bad terms for a long time, and on Good Friday last Thomas waited for his brother as he returned from mass, and coming up behind him in a sequestered spot, knocked him down with a broken axe, and then chopped his head off. Having done this, he balanced the body with his knife, took out the heart, lungs and other organs, and placed them upon one side of the head, while he cut up the rest of the body in small pieces and concealed it in a sash. Taking the head and viscera home with him, he pulled out the teeth and eyes from the head, while the intestines he fried and gave to his wife and children to eat. The other pieces of the body were found soon afterward, and the crime was traced home to him. When his house was searched his wife at once guessed what a horrible meal she had eaten, and her husband frankly told the police that it was so, and declared that he would do the same thing over again if he had the chance.

The Northern Pacific Railroad.

From the Ogden Dispatch.

From General Sprague, land commissioner of the above named road, we learned last evening that work will at once be commenced on the west end, and a section of 200 miles, from the head of navigation on the Columbia, just above the mouth of Snake River, to Pen d'Oreille Lake, completed as rapidly as possible. A section of 200 miles will also soon be completed on the east end of the road. Mr. Sprague gives it as a positive information that this road will be completed in the Mississippi to Puget Sound within five years. The western terminus will remain at Tacoma, Washington Territory, where a large city is destined to spring up. A well-landed harbor is before the townsite.

Selling Whisky to Indians.

From the Helena Independent.

There is not a town in Montana where an Indian can not get the whisky he wants, as is evidenced by their drunken apes immediately after leaving the place. Whisky is the cause of all the disturbances between whites and Indians, and no doubt the primary cause of all the thefts and outrages by the Indians.

From the Walla Walla Statesman.

Nearly all the trouble with Indians is occasioned by the actions of a few depraved whites selling them whisky. Go where we will, we are sure to find some sassy, drunken swash trying to get up a little war of his own. There are various dodges by which the Indians can obtain liquor. One is to sell them "skookum flour," that is, they buy a sack of flour in which a bottle of whisky is concealed. Any white found guilty of providing the Indians with whisky, or gambling with them, is entitled to a coat of tar and feathers, after which performance he should be turned over to be dealt with by the law.

A Most Mysterious Death.

Bad luck made George Waterfield downhearted, and he frequently threatened to take his own life. So disconsolate was he that, when some white asked the loungers on the veranda of the tavern at Edge Hill, Pa., to go into the barroom and drink, and all the rest responded with alacrity, he stayed outside alone. When the others came out again, they found Waterfield lying dead on the floor, with a wound in his breast. They thought he had carried out his suicidal purpose by stabbing himself, but they could not find a knife. An examining physician found a bullet in the supposed gash, and it was a mystery how the shot had been fired, until it was ascertained that a man had been trying a rifle in that direction from a point three-quarters of a mile away.

The Girls With the Suicide.

A susceptible young man was killed at Charlotte, N. C. He went to a house where a girl was spending the evening with a party of her own sex, and asked to see her. She refused him an interview, and he could not get into the house. He declared that he did not desire to live longer, and was going to kill himself, then and there. The girls came out on the doorsteps and said they were ready to witness the deed. Then he drew a knife, made a feint of stabbing himself, fell on the grass, writhed as though in death agony, and screamed at the top of his voice. By thus frightening the girls he might have gone away with flying colors had they not, as a restorative, drenched him with pails of ice water.

Curious Hydrophobia by Poison.

Russian papers report that during last month no less than nine persons were bitten by a rabid wolf in the hamlet of Bogoljubow, in the Vladimir district. They were taken to the hospital, where five of them died, in fearful agony, soon after their admission. The doctors resolved to try in the other cases an experiment, which a German physician employed with success against hydrophobia. The experiment consisted in administering to the patient a dose of the Indian poison curare. The Russian Pravda says that this was administered at Vladimir to the remaining four persons who had been bitten by the wolf. They all died, but without the preliminary torture of hydrophobia.

Sixty-Five Miles an Hour in a Balloon.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—Prof. Leon made a balloon ascension at 5 o'clock this afternoon from the western part of the city. His balloon was soon lost to sight in the clouds. At about 6 o'clock he landed near Hillsboro, Ohio, sixty-five miles distant, having lost his reckoning. He says that he intended landing on Walnut Hills, in the eastern part of the city, but that the violence of the wind prevented it.

Referred to the Mrs. H. B. Hayes Temperance Society.

From Forney's Progress.

"R. B. Hayes, the last time I saw him in Philadelphia, joined me in a glass of champagne at the Union League.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Visitors to San Francisco who take an interest in minerals, may see a fine collection of specimens at the Academy of Sciences, corner of Dupont and California streets. The rooms are open to the public on two days of each week. The situation of the rooms, on a dark corner of a disreputable street, prevents any one of the general public from attending the evening meetings of the Society. As for the members, their reputations are too well-established to be endangered.

The H. B. party of California has had a brief existence. In a year or two it will have been forgotten. It was a party formed because there were too many greedy office-seekers to allow a place for them all on the tickets of one or other of the existing parties. Hence the necessity for a new organization, a new deal in which some of the outsiders might hope for a winning card. But now that the election is over, the H. B. party has dissolved and disappeared. The earth has bubbles as the water bath, and these are of them.

The Eureka Sentinel requests the GAZETTE to correct a mistake in regard to some trouble in the Methodist Church of Ruby Hill. The Sentinel says that the Rev. Philo Phelps, of whom some mention was made in that connection, had nothing to do with the scandal and is entirely guiltless of any impropriety. We are pleased to make the correction, but decline to assume any responsibility for our editorial mention of the matter. The GAZETTE's note was based upon the statements made in one of the Eureka papers—we forget which.

Saturday evening's Bulletin contains among the notices of new publication, a brief review of "John of Barneveld." It is pleasing to observe that Motley's graceful writings are considered fresh and new on the Pacific Coast for three or four years after publication.

The "Rev." J. S. Kallach who showed himself a blackguard has now been proved a thief. The San Francisco Hap last Saturday showed by quotations that a great part of Kallach's oration against the DeYoungs was stolen from McCauley's arraignment of Barrere.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Old Winnemucca, the hail and hearty chief of the Putes, is seventy-five years old.

Competition has made brick so cheap in Eureka that a brick building can be put up almost as cheaply as a frame one.

At the calico party last Friday night at Virginia the prize for the prettiest calico dress was awarded to Miss G. forth. Mrs. Spencer took the prize for the best lady waltzer and Johnny Pangburn for the best gentleman waltzer.

A Carson man named Glover thought he had found an infant in the watercloset vault of the Arlington House. He thought he heard it cry. Procuring assistance he lowered himself by a rope into the vault and found that what he supposed a baby, was a kitten.

Items on the Overland.

Rocklin has a blue ribbon saloon. New Castle received over 50,000 orange trees last spring.

The first couple married in California after it became a State were C. H. Schnobell and Dorretta Barkhans, in October, 1851, by Rev. Mr. Williams, of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Schnobell now live in New Castle, Placer county, and have raised a large family, four of whom are still living.

On Saturday Nicholas Furman, of the Lost Camp mine near Blue Canyon, had one of his legs crushed by a rock. It was amputated by a Colfax doctor, who was a passenger on the upward bound freight train, and he is doing well.

A. W. Avery, conductor of No. 7, on Saturday night slipped and fell at Roseville Junction, the wheels cutting off two of his toes and some part of the moving cars injuring him on the head. He was insensible for some time and is very badly hurt. He is a brother of Ira Avery, proprietor of the Monumental mill at Emigrant Gap.

G. O. Geisendorfer, whose hand was hurt at his saw mill at Tamarack a few weeks ago, is getting well rapidly.

Peter Ramus, a half-breed negro and Indian, rode into a camp near Nevada City last Friday evening, armed with a double-barrelled shot gun, and shot and instantly killed his square, without dismounting, and also attempted to kill another square, but only succeeded in slightly wounding her. As soon as he committed the deed Ramus took to the woods.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

The vote of Stanislaus county on the Chinese question was 5 for and 1656 against Chinese immigration. Petaluma requires all boys under sixteen years to leave the street at eight o'clock P. M. in the summer. In Mammoth City, (elevation 10,800 feet), it takes ten minutes to boil an egg. Water boils at a temperature of 190 degrees.

A prisoner in jail at Napa refused to eat for ten days, and now the county physician has to pump beef tea into him at regular intervals.

Southern Oregon miners are offering 55 cents a bushel for wheat on 50 days' time, and 60 cents when six months' time is given them.

Sargent & Morris of Dayton lost 300 sheep which had eaten a poisonous weed near Rock creek, Whitman county. Other sheep men also lost heavily.

The day for the execution of Salvador, who murdered Paul Reiger on Paper Mill creek, in Marin county, Cal., last April, has been set for October 2d.

A rancher near Bridgeport riding on a buckboard as the Bodie stage was passing, drew his shot-gun and ordered the stage to go round him, which it did.

C. M. Chapman, a rancher who lives a few miles from Truckee, carried off a $25 prize at the pigeon shooting last Wednesday at the California State Fair.

A band tournament will be held at Greenville, November 4th and 5th, open to all bands in Plumas, Lassen, Sierra and Butte counties. Eight hundred dollars will be given in premiums.

The wool crop of Montana for 1879 amounts to 900,000 pounds. The bulk of this was marketed at from 23 to 25 cents in the territory, which brings in a revenue of at least $230,000.

The Nevada city Transcript says that every effort to introduce the five-cent nickel pieces into that camp proves a failure. The miners say it has the appearance of getting money affairs screwed down too tight.

Jacob Martin, aged fifteen, a son of Charles Martin, living near Messick's bridge, not far from Stockton, while hunting last Saturday, accidentally shot himself. The charge entered his body under the right arm. He died in half an hour after the accident.

At a station on Bear river, an estimate was kept of all the cattle passing east from Idaho and Oregon, and up to the 1st of July 60,000 head had passed. Up to the close of the driving season it reached nearly 200,000 head, and we have still plenty left, the Idaho Democrat says.

MARINE.

CHAMBERLAIN-DIXON-In San Francisco, September 14th, 1915. Jesse Chamberlain to Miss Ella Dixon, both of Reno.

METEOROLOGICAL.

The thermometer at O'Brien & Shoemaker's drug store today stood as follows:
F. 4. W. 55. - 9. A. M. 70. - 12. M. 81. - 3. P. M. 85.

JOTTINGS.

The great bear hunt commences at Webber Lake today.
A woman advertises for a situation as housekeeper, etc.
The County Commissioners met as a Board of Equalization today.
D. Bernardi & Co. of Sacramento, will sell all kinds of game on commission. See their ad.
A very singular tooth is on exhibition at Chase's saloon. It is said to have been taken from the head of a fossil whale.
The Chinamen who robbed the store of Mr. Harrison, at Milford, of $2000 last week have not been caught. Indians have been put on their trail.
B. F. Reed has some very large squashes on his vines. One of them measures three feet and seven inches in its smallest circumference.
The Fine concentrator was running again today. It gives great satisfaction. It will be taken apart and packed in a few days and sent to some new field for trial.
Watson's photographic apparatus passed through to Carson this morning. The well known artist will take views in that vicinity under the direction of the Coast Survey.
An alarm of fire was raised last Saturday evening to bring the members of Reno Engine Co., No. 1, to the engine house. The boys were promptly on hand and the engine was taken out and "exercised."
It was a warm day yesterday, and the extreme dryness of the atmosphere was happily illustrated by the fact that a keg full of Wabbe beer, exposed to the air in the GAZETTE office, was entirely dissipated before night.
A Tall Thief Stole Away.
Yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock J. L. McFarlin was sitting outside of Stopher's saloon, opposite the GAZETTE office. He happened to glance across Sierra street and into the alley that runs through to West street and was surprised to see coming out of his barn, a stranger with two carriage robes in his arms. McFarlin immediately requested the stranger, who was a tall lean fellow, to "drop those robes." The stranger deferred to Mr. McFarlin's wishes in the matter, and throwing the robes on the ground, jumped over two fences surrounding the yard of the Golden Eagle hotel and started off upon the run up the alley. McFarlin, who is of a good nature, started in pursuit, but the stranger gradually drew from him and escaped. McFarlin immediately harnessed his horse and went for a drive about the suburbs north and west of town, but saw no more of the tall stranger.

A Verdant Youth.

A boy from the country was questioned by a GAZETTE reporter last Saturday concerning the condition of the crop, etc. in the neighborhood of his home. The youth had not seen much of the world and betrayed his inexperience by his conversation. He remarked that "the railroad runs right through father's farm, and oh! my golly I don't that railroad go."

New Goods.

Abraham Bros. & Co., of the White House, are constantly receiving new goods and selling them as low as it is inducing people to come here to trade who never came here before, which is a credit to Reno and vicinity. We recommend them to the public as the cheapest, best and most reliable of any business in the State.

Runaway This Afternoon.

A pair of horses in harness, belonging to St. Louis Bros., started from the sand-pit west of town about half past 2 o'clock this afternoon and ran into town and were stopped at the corner of Commercial and Sierra streets. One of them was badly cut about the legs. There was no vehicle attached to them.

THE CALIFORNIA FAIR.

Sacramento Full of People - Good Races - Hot Weather.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 13.—The attendance at the track have been very good indeed during the week, although up to Thursday the influx of visitors from the outside was very light. It looks as if people were waiting for scorching weather, as on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when the presence of strangers was hardly perceptible, the thermometer kept down very agreeably; but yesterday and today have been very oppressive, and the people have crowded in from all quarters. At this forenoon, there was a perfect jam in the grand stand, and all around the field of carnage stood a solid phalanx of spectators. The battle was slow. It reads well on paper, but to people who were looking on there was very little that was interesting. The roar of 800 muskets alone has very little to repay five or six thousand people for standing under a hot roof, or, worse still, out in the sun, for half an hour. Upon the whole, sham battles cannot be recommended for State fairs.

A CURIOUS THING
was the apathy of the many horses driven about or hitched in the neighborhood. Many of them who go wild at the explosion of a fire-cracker or the snap of a whip, hardly noticed even the discharge of the artillery. There was no accident from that cause, and none from any, except the damaging of H. Conway's fingers by the premature discharge of one of the cannons. If the gun had been in the usual position it would have sent the ramrod through a dense crowd of people at short range, and put the whole State in mourning. Fortunately the muzzle was depressed, and no great damage was done by it.

THE RACES
have been exceptionally good, although the betting has been light. Several new horses have come to the front and made their marks. Nearly every horse that has run here will go to Reno and Carson, and some to Susanville. W. R. Wynn will bring over more than a dozen horses, and is very anxious for a pacing race. He says he can secure entries of the best pacers on the coast, some of them new blood from Lassen county, and he wants a chance. Certainly it looks as if Reno should encourage breeding in Lassen county. At the pavilion there is a very creditable display. The art gallery is better stocked than at any previous fair in the history of the State. There is on the walls. Instead of the cheap work usually sent in, there are good, honest efforts from the studios of Mix, Hill, Keith, Bush and many others. The departments are all very well filled—fruit such as only California can pile up, grapes in huge clusters, and everything in proportion. The machinery, produce, and mercantile displays are fine and are a credit to the State.

The Reform Club Saturday Evening.
The Reform Club held its regular meeting Saturday evening. After singing by the club, H. H. Beck was called for, and appeared bearing a 50-pound sack of flour upon his shoulder, the first sack ground at the new mill, which he proceeded to auction off for the benefit of the club. The first bid, $2 50, was from Mr. Marsh, to whom it was immediately knocked down; Mr. Marsh donated the sack back to the club and it was again sold. The sack was sold eight times, after which R. V. McKelvey was introduced and delivered the lecture of the evening. His subject was "Temperance." After songs by the members of the club, Mr. Beck again came to the front with the sack of flour and promised to sing a new song after he had sold his sack once more. He succeeded in selling it again to H. H. Beck, after which he sang that beautiful new song entitled "John Brown's Body lies Mouldering in the Grave." The club realized $31 50 as the proceeds of the sale of the flour. Mr. Beck, being the last purchaser, donated the sack to the Women's Temperance Union to be baked into cakes, slapjacks or any of the other good things of life, and sold for the benefit of the union. The last bid for the flour was $7 50 from M. T. Costa.

Real Estate Transfers.
The following sales of real estate have been recorded since Aug. 31: Alvaro Evans to John O'Brien, lots 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 in block 8, and lot 1 in block 15, Evans' North Addition, $1200.
B. B. Baum and wife to Samuel Lettins, lots 5 and 6 in block 7, $400.
Alvaro Evans to John Newmark, lot 6 in block 1, Evans' North Addition, $200.
C. W. Jones and wife to Amelia Goodman, south half of lot 6, block W, $1300.
W. D. Edwards and wife to Stephen Eds, 80 acres in Truckee Meadows, $800.

Court of Justice—Young.
John Mullen was abroad yesterday, manifesting a lively desire to fight every man he met. His pugilistic propensities had been unduly excited by liquor. Meeting Joseph Pierce, Mullen pursued him with pressing invitations to fight, and several times endeavored to force a battle. Whereupon Pierce caused the arrest of the said Mullen upon a charge of disturbing the peace, and Mullen, being taken to the county jail, was committed to the custody of the sheriff.

Lost and Found.
A reward of twenty dollars will be paid for the return to this office of any diamond studs lost this morning (Monday) between the Lake and Esplanade, and which were worn by a man named J. W. Jones. The studs were taken from a man's pocket and were found in the pocket of a man named J. W. Jones. No questions asked.

The Lecture Last Evening.

Mr. Jewey delivered the first of his four historical lectures last evening. His subject was "The Influence of the Jews on the World at Large." He first traced, in rapid review, their history, giving only the bare outline of it from the call of Abraham to the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus. He then spoke of their literature, of its antiquity, of its vast impression upon mankind, and of its marvelous beauty. This literature is all embraced within the Bible. He then spoke of their religion. He claimed that that which distinguished them from other nations was the fact of their being monotheists. This one fact was that which made their influence so great and so good. When the Assyrians carried them away into captivity they were enabled to spread their belief in one God among them. It was the same when the Babylonians, the Persians, the Greeks and the Romans held them in captivity. This one fact seems to have been the great mission of the Jews before the coming of the Saviour. They were to be the great missionaries to best, by their life and to introduce the worship of one God. He then spoke of their future. He claimed that they had not been kept distinct from all the other nations during the eighteen hundred years of their exile and persecution for nothing. He believed there were still prophecies unfulfilled, and that these were yet to be realized. He believed that the Jews some day would be restored to their land, and that then they would enter upon a future of unparalleled prosperity and splendor. The second of these lectures, "The Influence of the Greeks Upon the World," will be given next Sunday evening. This cannot fail to be highly interesting and instructive, as the Greeks were one of the most remarkable people of antiquity.

How to Tell a Man's Tread from a Beast's.

A friend relates that he was once camping out in a wild part of California, in company with another man. Their tent stood among bushes. Indians, bears and wild cats were numerous in the neighborhood. They had both gone to sleep, and their camp fire had died out. Some noise around one of them and he woke the other. They listened with guns in hand. There came the sound of the snapping of a twig, followed by dead silence. Afterwards they could plainly hear the tread of some heavy animal moving around the camp. In a short time all was still. "That," said one of the two men, an experienced hunter, "was an Indian. A wild animal, when it breaks a twig, goes on without pausing. An Indian, stealing round a camp, if he snaps a stick, will listen to find out if the noise he has heard." The hunter's inference proved true, for in the morning an Indian came to their camp and said that he came on it during the night, but for fear of being shot he went away until daylight.

The Fire Last Night.

The cabin of "Crazy John" or "John Bigod" was entirely consumed by fire last night. Crazy John was on the street last evening with his unfortunate infirmity greatly exaggerated by liquor. Near the Savings Bank he took off his coat and rent the garment in twain. It is therefore supposed that in some way the fire is attributable to an irrational and intemperate use of matches by the said John at the time that he retired to rest. His tenement was a mere shanty, and was quickly consumed. An alarm was rung, but neither the fire-engine nor "48" turned out. They could not have saved the cabin as it was half burned up when the alarm was given.

The Chinese Funeral on Saturday.

What sounded in the distance like an alarm of fire last Saturday afternoon proved to be the usual acrobatic demonstrations of grief at the funeral of a prominent citizen of Chinatown. This pagan pounding of gongs and cymbals in a funeral procession seems very strange to American ears. The Pious betrayed great interest on the late mournful occasion. They accompanied the procession to the cemetery and took up a position of observation on the hill. After the last sad rites had been paid the departed, the cold chicken and boiled rice deposited on his grave, and the moon-judicious mourners departed, the judicious Pious descended to the feast.

Shooting Within City Limits.

On Saturday afternoon in Carson, Joseph Irwin was examined on the charge of shooting Conductor Haven, a dog within the City Limits. His counsel raised the objection that the ordinance for prohibiting such shooting is unconstitutional. Judge Cary held the same view and dismissed the case.

Wedding at Carson.

Henry Morris, formerly of Reno, but now living on the Oakes, was married to Miss L. E. Shyer at Carson yesterday. Mr. Ross, W. Wall, Sol Levy and Fred Levy of Reno attended the wedding. They described the affair as one of the most brilliant that ever took place in Carson.

Lost Diamond Studs.

A reward of twenty dollars will be paid for the return to this office of any diamond studs lost this morning (Monday) between the Lake and Esplanade, and which were worn by a man named J. W. Jones. The studs were taken from a man's pocket and were found in the pocket of a man named J. W. Jones. No questions asked.

Rev. Philo Phelps Protected.
EUREKA, Nevada, September 13.—To the Editor of the Reno Gazette: Sir, I noticed in a recent issue of your paper that you do a very great injustice to a worthy minister of this place; the Rev. Philo Phelps, and feeling satisfied that you could have no personal motive to injure him, I write to correct it, and also to call your attention to a more careful examination of the article in the Eureka Sentinel upon which years was based. That article made no reference to him in the light in which you place it. What ever, it referred to the trouble in the M. E. church at Ruby Hill and some one looking the church up on Tuesday evening to his appointment, but he was not a party to the trouble on either side, neither did the article in the Sentinel so present him, but only spoke of him and Rev. Ricker in a "jocular way of going up there to preach to them." The Rev. Mr. Phelps' exemplary life is such that it could not injure him here, but it would where he is not so well known to an injustice to him. Please publish this correction. Respectfully,
J. MARCHANT.

If one of the Eureka papers did not state that the officiating clergyman of the Ruby Hill Methodist church, had betrayed an unholy fondness for a married woman of his congregation and broken up his church in consequence, then we could not trust our eyesight anymore. One of our Eureka exchanges distinctly stated that the lady's husband was exceedingly indignant at the conduct of the pastor. Why an attempt should be made to make the GAZETTE shoulder the responsibility we do not understand.—
[Ed. GAZETTE.]

District Court.

The District Court was re-opened this morning, Judge W. M. Seawall presiding.
In the case of the State vs. H. D. McKenzie, a motion to amend the indictment was denied. The indictment was set aside, and the case re-submitted to the present Grand Jury. The prisoner remains in custody.

State vs. Elias Block—On motion of the District Attorney and on his statement that there was no sufficient evidence to convict, the case was dismissed.
State vs. Tong Wah—Set for trial October 13.
Gilson & Barber vs. W. E. Price—The order setting the case "vacated." Case passed for re-setting at a future day of present term.

Gen. H. Ery vs. T. L. Lagomastino et al.—The order setting case vacated. Case to be set on a future day.
Rice vs. Clark and Martin—Papers "dropped."
J. O. Hogerman vs. B. M. Shaber—Motion made to re-arrest costs by W. L. Knox, attorney for defendant. Col. R. E. Taylor appeared for the plaintiff of Storey county. M. J. McCutchan, Deputy Sheriff of Storey county sworn. On motion of attorney for sheriff of Storey county, ordered that $1 per day be allowed. Motion allowing $32 50 stricken from cost bill and judgment.

Ordered that a writ of habeas corpus be issued to C. C. Huffaker to-morrow at 10 A. M. Recess till 1:30 P. M.
A Question About the Wahoo.
EDITOR GAZETTE:—In an article upon "the wahoo" which recently appeared in the GAZETTE it was stated that the legs on the left side of the wahoo are shorter than those on the right. Such a formation would give the creature a great advantage in traveling around a hill to the left. But suppose the wahoo wanted to go around the other way, how would it do then?
Reno, August 14, 1879.
They say it never wants to go the other way; that the animal always keeps to the left.—[Ed. GAZETTE.]
